On Ash Wednesday, we Christians are traditionally reminded of our own mortality in a very vivid way, as the ashes are marked on our foreheads in the sign of the cross. In the sign of the cross we hear the words spoken over us, "Remember that you are dust and to dust you will return." This is a reminder not just of our physical mortality, but of the very path of Lent itself. We begin this season of Lent not only reminded of our death but marked for death, and that path of death is about our transformation.

The journey of Lent is about being born again by participating in the death and resurrection of Jesus, about that journey from Galilee to Jerusalem. The journey of Lent with its climax in Good Friday and Easter, is about embarking on the way of Jesus on that path of mortality and transformation that is at the very center of the Christian life. When you think of it, who of us does not yearn for this? Who of us does not yearn for a fuller connection to life? A fuller connection with God? Who does not yearn for an identity that releases us from anxiety and self-preoccupation? To be born again, it seems, corresponds to our deepest yearning. May we this Lent experience that internal transformation that is at the center of the Christian life. May we experience being born again.

From the Pastor...

Dear Servants of Trinity...

As you read through this edition of the Red Door Newsletter, you will find that Lent is a very busy time at Trinity. Usually we think of the Lenten season as being one in which we can stop or at least slow down to contemplate and prayerfully consider what it means to live a life in Christ and the Church. But it looks to be a much busier time than we ever imagined.

As we began the Lenten journey on Ash Wednesday, there was the smell of ashes and the smear on our foreheads in the sign of the cross reminding us that we are dust, and to dust we will one day return. As we celebrate the coming Sunday mornings during Lent and the Sunday evening suppers and Lenten Vespers, we are drawn into a time of aloneness as we began the first Sunday of Lent with the story of Jesus spending forty days in the wilderness. And then the silence is broken by the admission of our hearts. "Here I am, Lord, and this is what has become a burden to me. Here are all those things that I have allowed into my life that clouds your face, O God. I am so needy. I am sorrowful. I am incomplete without you in my life."

What will it take for our heads to be lifted once again? Suddenly we come to the realization that it is the fire of God's tremendous love for us - the fire of forgiveness and the fire of God's saving grace that has proved the ashes for this day of repentance. These promises raise our heads and bring us to our feet. They move us to forget ourselves and to be deeply drawn to God and his heart. They move us to forgive the past, to allow God to heal the hurts, they help us move forward in faith to that place where he prepares us in our Lenten journeys. And we look forward, with great anticipation for the palms to be cheerfully raised and shouts of Hosannas! For this is our Lord...our King...our Salvation! For these forty days it is all of this and more as we contemplate what it means to be a follower of Jesus Christ in all its costliness. So take a deep breath, pray and listen and be steadfast in God's promises. See you in worship!

Blessings in your Lenten journey!

PALM SUNDAY IS MARCH 28 – A Very Special Day At Trinity Lutheran Church

The Trinity congregation will gather outside the front doors as we begin the (11:00 AM Worship) Palm Sunday Processional, shouting "Hosanna! -- Blessed is He who comes in the name of the Lord" and then singing the hymn, "All Glory Laud and Honor" as we process into the sanctuary to worship the Lord of lords and King of kings. It will truly be a wonderful celebration of praise and triumph as we remember Jesus' ride into Jerusalem.

It will also be a very special day at Trinity as we celebrate the Rite of Confirmation of Ben and Sarah Weisel who will have completed their catechetical studies and will have been approved by the Church Ministry Leadership Board in March. You will not want to miss worship on this special day as we celebrate with Ben and Sarah and the Weisel family!

PROPERTY MINISTRY TEAM ANNOUNCES SPRING CLEAN UP DAY

All servants of Trinity are urged to be on the campus on Saturday, March 27 from 9 AM until 2 PM for the Spring Clean Up Day. You are asked to bring cleaning solutions, window cleaner, rags, mops, brooms, etc., and for outside maintenance - rakes, clippers (electric or manual), edgers (weed eaters), sprayers, etc. Sausage biscuits and coffee in the morning will be served and pizza will be served at noon for all helpers. Come and help beautify the church grounds for the Holy Week and Easter celebrations.

THE MARCH FELLOWSHIP LUNCHEON - ST. PATRICK'S DAY

The March Fellowship Luncheon will be on March 17 at 11 AM at K&W in the Cloverleaf Shopping Center. Since March 17 is also St. Patrick's Day, you might want to wear green as we gather for fellowship and breaking bread together. It will be a great time - come and join this wonderful group for a really great time. You might even see a leprechaun!

PRAISE & WORSHIP MEETING

The P&W Ministry Team will meet on Saturday, March 13 at 10 AM for the monthly planning meeting. If you are interested in worship or any of the many responsibilities surrounding the worship ministry, you are invited to come to this meeting and join the team. Those who currently serve on the team are urged to attend as we will discuss final plans for Palm Sunday-Holy Week-Easter-Pentecost.

CONNECTING

When I walk into a new restaurant I can tell within a couple of minutes whether or not I feel a connection. The vibe of the restaurant, from the general atmosphere to the host or hostess, immediately tells me what the experience is likely to be. The actual meal is only part of my connection to a restaurant; the whole experience determines whether or not I'll come back.

People want that connection, especially when they travel. I know I do. That's why chain restaurants do so well. Customers have already made a connection, they know they like it, and marketing shows people choose what they are comfortable with, meaning, they choose where they connect. This doesn't indicate an aversion to risk. As a matter of fact, when I travel, I love to try new places. So I ask the people who are hosting my trip to tell me their favorite place to eat and tell them not to include a chain restaurant. I'm trusting their connection! I recently traveled to LifeChurch.tv in Oklahoma City to meet with some of their key leaders. I traveled with Lance Young, one of the pastors on our team at 12Stone. He lived there for about 3 years while on staff at LifeChurch and so I asked him to drive us to one of his favorite restaurants. We went to The Redrock Canyon Grill. From the moment I walked in, the connection was on. Great service, mixed it up with the server (fun), cool vibe, and the crab cakes were to die for. Here's the key. I'd go back.

You know where I'm headed, so let's go there. This idea of connection is the same in your church. Whether you are part of a chain, or mom and pop café, or an independent, people want to connect with your experience or they're not coming back. And keep in mind, it's not all about the meal (sermon), it's the whole experience.

Connection on whose terms?

I think it's best to set the connection to the environment on their (the guest) terms and set the connection to the church mission on your (church leaders) terms. It's often done just the opposite in many churches.

Here's what I mean. When you set the connection based on the new person's experience, you set the environment to make them feel at home. So we make the space itself feel good, we have a Coffee Shop for the fancy stuff, and free coffee stations too, the aroma is important. The dress is casual, we don't make visitors stand, we don't make them wear a name tag that says "Hey everybody, look at me, I'm new, I don't belong here." They don't have to do anything, say anything, or commit to anything to come to church. Those are the terms new people love when trying a church. And like a restaurant, they know real fast if they like it or not.

In churches where the environment is set on the church leaders' terms, the guest is required to embrace any number of things such as dressing a certain way, wear a name badge, sit in a special section, stand up, go to a room, accept a visit, meet the pastor after the service, and the list goes on. All these things can be good, but keep in mind one crucial issue, your guest might not want to!!

Set the guests connection to your church's mission on your terms. You are not running a cruise ship. It's not your primary responsibility to create programs to make Christians happy. Regardless of how you say it, your mission is to reach people for Jesus and disciple them in their maturing faith. That's it. So when people join your church or sign on the dotted line in whatever way you do that, you set the terms. Be bold about the mission and how people connect in.

First Impressions Matter

We know that first impressions make a difference. You can lose people from your church in the parking lot. I don't mean because it's so big they literally get lost. If your parking lot is utter chaos and there is no leadership out there, new people, especially people disenfranchised from God and the church are already turned off before then set foot in your door.

At 12Stone Church we have a team of heroes. "Parking Warriors" are the words printed on their shirts. The team is led by amazing men like Jimmy Lastinger, Hector and Louis Morales, Gerald Minor, Dan Shogren, Dan Strader, Jason Frady and others. The whole team is out on the blacktop on all three campuses regardless of whether it's freezing cold or sweltering hot. They help people get in and out of the lot as easily, safely and quickly as possible. Without them, it doesn't matter how good the worship experience is!

Perhaps you have plenty of room and easy access in your parking lot. Your ushers, greeters and nursery team complete your first impressions team. Friendly and well trained ushers and greeters who have a heart to serve make a huge difference on whether or not people connect with you and your church.

There is a physical component to first impressions. Buildings, landscaping, and signs make a difference. If a family pulls into your parking lot and the paint on your building is chipped and cracked, the plants are in sad shape and the signage isn't helpful, you are sending a message. Unfortunately not the message you want to send. You may be a loving church with an incredible vision to reach people for Christ, but they may never give you a chance because you didn't tend to your first impressions.

Organic or Linear – Which makes for the best connection?

After first impressions, the real connection begins. Once a person has found your church friendly, culturally relevant, and the worship experience has genuine impact in their life, they begin to decide if they will become involved and to what degree. It's the "What's next?" question, and the answer must be clear and simple.

You may have a linear approach. Rick Warren launched a brilliant process using a baseball diamond. The people in his church deepen their connection to God and the mission at Saddleback Church around the bases. It's very linear and very good. Some churches have a linear expression, but with an organic feel like North Point Church led by Andy Stanley. They use their three environments of Foyer, Living Room and Kitchen. With a relational bias they move people toward small groups (the kitchen) where the people grow in their faith. At 12Stone Church, we also have a blend but lean toward a more fluid approach. Our process wraps around the three elements of Inspire, Share, & Give. There are linear pieces such as a "Discover 12Stone" event, and a 4 week class for those who are new in their faith called Day One, but you don't have to do things in order.

Personally, I think people are more organic in behavior because they like to choose their own path. There must, however, be enough structure to be clear in your answer of the "Next Steps" question. What is most important is that you make your choice of more organic or linear intentionally.

Overall, my advice is to keep it as simple as you can. If your church is smaller, you will likely feel or experience two things. 1. No need for a process of connection. 2. A tendency to over complicate your process. You may not need a formal connection process at your current size, but you will need one. So why not practice now? But keep it simple. If your church is large, you will likely feel the pressure of actually making your process work. Don't give up. There is no perfect process. Just keep working on it and remember that good leadership is more important than which approach you actually choose. Good leadership can make an average system work. Poor leadership can't make a brilliant process work.

I encourage you to share this article with your team and talk about your process of connection.

SPAGHETTI DINNER THE FIRST SUNDAY OF EACH MONTH

Beginning with the first Sunday in March, spaghetti dinners will be served in the Fellowship Center immediately following the 11 AM worship. You won't need to go out or plan for a Sunday dinner at home because it will all be right here at Trinity. The free-will offering will benefit the Trinity General Operating Fund. Come and share the Spirit and the spaghetti!

PRESCHOOL NEWS:

March starts off at our preschool with Transportation Week. We will be learning about all kinds of ways to get to and from places. Not only are there planes, trains and automobiles, but also bicycles, motorcycles, helicopters and buses. The children will all want to tell their own stories about boat rides, plane rides etc. This should be lively and interesting. We will also be reviewing our letter of the week, which is “t”.

Week two begins with a “trip” to the zoo. We won’t actually be taking the children to a real zoo, but instead visiting the zoo we will have for the children here. They will learn about all kinds of animals they could find in a zoo, and even how zoos feed their animals and care for them. Following our zoo theme, our letter for the week will be “z”.

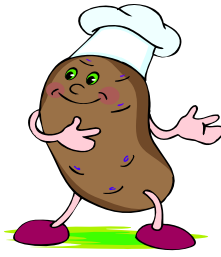

Oceans will be the theme for week three. We will learn the names of all the earth’s oceans and seas and about all the creatures living in them. Not only do fishes live in the oceans, but lots of mammals too. The letter for this week is “o”. (Catching on yet?)

For St. Patrick’s Day, the children will be encouraged to wear green and our snack will be green (purposely!) There will be shamrocks o’ plenty as the children will be making and decorating them, much to their delight. As you can imagine, anything involving glue, paint and glitter causes much excitement.

With the March winds, it is only natural that we talk about kites, and that happens in week 4. We will attempt to make small kites but we’re not sure how “air worthy” they are going to be. The letter this week is(can you guess)...”k”.

The last week of March we will be concentrating on Easter and preparing the children for the festivities they will share with their families. While we will have fun with Easter eggs and bunnies, we will also be talking about the Easter story. Pastor Gil will be conducting chapel with the children on March 31. The letter for the week is, of course, “e”.

We at the preschool will always welcome participation from church members. You can read to the children, help organize games, or if you have any special skills or hobbies we would love to have you show the children. Please contact Jill Downing if you would be able to volunteer.

Trinity Easter Egg Hunt

Thank you.

YOU TOOK MY PARKING SPACE AT CHURCH

This should wake you up.

One day, a man went to visit a church, He got there early, parked his car and got out. Another car pulled up near the driver got out and said, " I always park there! You took my place!"

The visitor went inside for Sunday School, found an empty seat and sat down A young lady from the church approached him and stated, "That ' s my seat! You took my place!" The visitor was somewhat distressed by this rude welcome, but said nothing.

After Sunday School, the visitor went into the sanctuary and sat down. Another member walked up to him and said, " That ' s where I always sit! You took my place!" The visitor was even more troubled by this treatment, but still He said nothing.

Later as the congregation was praying for Christ to dwell among them, the visitor stood up, and his appearance began to change. Horrible scars became visible on his hands and on his sandaled feet. Someone from the congregation noticed him and called out, "What happened to you?" The visitor replied, as his hat became a crown of thorns, and a tear fell from his eye, "I took your place.."

UPCOMING VIA DE CRISTO WEEKENDS

2010 Spring Weekends:

Men's #64 April 22-25

Women's #64 May 13-16

Via de Cristo means "the Way of Christ" and it is a name used by Lutherans for a movement of personal Christian renewal within the Church. A Via de Cristo Retreat is an encounter with Christ in which the participant becomes a part of a community abounding in God's grace. It enhances and strengthens our personal relationship with Christ, with our Christian brothers and sisters and with the Christian community. The Via de Cristo Retreat is coming face to face with Christ.

If you haven't already done so, plan to attend one of the weekends held at Lutheridge. You can see Pastor Gil or any of those who have attended a weekend for more details. Some who have attended in the past are Kay Wilson, Karen Gilbert, Don & Lois Reynolds, Ron and Sue Tarnovich, Vicki Benton, Nancy Dorton, Suzanne Merritt, David & Gwen Faggart, and Archie and Nancy Fisher.

GIVING UP MORE DURING LENT

During Lent we remember what Christ sacrificed for us on the cross as we give up meat on Fridays, become more devotional and attend our church for special services. Why not go a step further this Lenten season by giving up going out to eat just once a week, and giving that money to the church for the glory of God and in remembrance of Christ's sacrifice on the cross. He gave so much for us, this is just a little we can return to Him.

WHAT IS CELIBACY?

Celibacy can be a choice in life or a condition imposed by circumstances. For example:

While attending a Marriage Weekend, Walter and his wife Ann, listened to the instructor declare, "It is essential that husbands and wives know the things that are important to each other". He then addressed the men, "Can you name and describe your wife's favorite flower?"

Walter leaned over, touched Ann's arm gently and whispered, "Gold Medal-All-Purpose, isn't it?"

And thus began Walter's life of celibacy.....
